Richard Alexander : Framing Discourse on the Environment: A Critical Discourse Approach (Routledge Critical Studies in Discourse) before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Framing Discourse on the Environment: A Critical Discourse Approach (Routledge Critical Studies in Discourse):

In this study, Richard Alexander presents a series of original and empirically based case studies of the language and discourse involved in the discussion of environmental and ecological issues. Relying upon a variety of different text types and genres including company websites, advertisements, press articles, speeches and lectures Alexander interrogates how, in the media, press, corporate and activist circles, language is employed to argue for and propagate selected positions on the growing ecological crisis. For example, he asks: How are ecological and environmental concerns articulated in texts? What do we learn about ecological problems through texts from differing sources? What language features accompany ecological discourse in differing contexts and registers? Attention is especially directed at where this discourse comes into contact with business, economic and political concerns.
