review helpful. Great for beginner soap makers. By Corinne J. I felt the need to leave a review since this book hasn't gotten more love. Much like the author, I'm a person who has been sensitized to harsh detergents and chemicals and have to make my own soap etc. My cousin bought this book for my birthday, and I'm so sad that I didn't have this sooner--it would have saved me a lot of time, money, and trouble. My advice: Turn to the end of the book first. Read through all of her tips about how NOT to make a bad batch of soap, or how to FIX one that's going bad. I had to learn all this the hard way. Overall, she has a lot of good tips and tricks, and while I've been making my own CP soap for over a year, I still learned a couple things from this book. Plus the pictures are nice to look at, and I'm a visual learner so they gave me some good ideas!

From nourishing oat soap bars to impressive rosebud soap cakes and fun soaps for kids, this book will inspire you to make beautiful handmade soap without all the chemicals found in commercial products. Sarah shows you how to master the two key techniques of handmade soapmaking the traditional Cold-Process method and the fast and fun Melt-and-Pour method and then demonstrates how to use these techniques to make fabulous soaps, shampoo bars, homemade washing powder and even dishwasher soap bombs. Step-by-step photography and the author's insightful advice from years of experience teaching soap-making makes every project achievable, guiding you effortlessly from start to finish. Packed with handy tips and an easy, approachable style, this is a beautiful book filled with practical projects so that anyone, including children, can make a variety of soaps they will be proud to use, display and give away!

About the Author Sarah Harper has been making soap for nine years, starting in her kitchen at home in London, she then began making branded soap for shops in London and selling to guest houses and gift shops. Now a resident of The Clovelly Estate, she and her husband run a craft workshop and make artisan soap using natural ingredients and traditional methods under The Clovelly Soap Company brand. www.theclovellysoapcompany.co.uk
