Glass I just got this book in the mail today (I pre-ordered it in July) and I am so excited I can hardly contain myself. The instructions in this book put the Martha Stewart craft books to shame, it has step by step photos and text for each craft. I haven't seen the techniques Stephen Brown uses anywhere else. Not only is every craft in this book extremely unique and creative, I will be able to apply the techniques and use of materials to my own creations- making this my best craft book buy EVER! Because of the detailed instructions, I think most people will be able to do the crafts. However, these are not crafts for young children. I want another copy just for back up and I hope Glitterville and Stephen Brown come out with more books for all the other holidays. This one is simply amazing! 1 of 1 people found the following review helpful. picked up fun techniques like the proper way to apply glitter thoughly. By Diane I am really glad I purchased this book because it reminds me to just "do my own thing" and use everyday materials to do it, for a one of a kind result. I loved the front section of the book that spends some time on seemingly simple techniques like how to glitter properly, how to apply glue properly, etc. Yes, we learned these things in elementary school, but he refines the techniques. The projects were sweet and most of his directions easy to follow. I would recommend this book. I guess if I had a complaint, it would be that his artistic ability far exceeds mine and it showed in his finished faces (painting skills,) 1 of 1 people found the following review helpful. I was not disappointed By KTB He has taught me much with his Christmas book, I just had to buy this one. I was not disappointed

About the Author As a boy, craft and decorating guru Stephen Brown found himself in post-holiday doldrums after every big celebration, so his parents taught him what would become Glitterville's motto: "Make every day a holiday!" Glitterville has been featured in Southern Living, Mary Engelbreit's Home Companion, Cooking with Paula Deen, Better Homes and Gardens, Country Living, Woman's Day, and others. Originally from a small town in Tennessee, Brown splits his time between his office in New York City and his restored Edwardian-style studio in his hometown of Rockwood, Tennessee.
