By Daisy Mae
This homemade repellent book for bugs is a must have for homeowners. I don't like buying sprays and insecticides due to the chemicals. This book tells you how to make these products without having to use strong chemicals! This book lets you know how to rid your home of fleas, flies, cockroaches, bed bugs, moths, spiders, ticks, and termites. A few others are in there as well. This covers I think all the bugs that can invade your space. I like the recipe for pests that has a spice mix. I'm going to try this one and I'll let you know if it keeps bugs away.

I would recommend some changes with the Tea Tree oil and the suggestions in the book. From what I've read, Tea Tree is not safe for some pets (Cats) and I would change this part of the book if this is still applicable. I love to try new products and I'll write reviews as I am always reading the reviews prior to purchasing a product. So, though I receive products at a discount or for free, I will always give my honest opinion of a product in a review. I trust that the person writing the review is honest about the product, which makes the review worthwhile. I hope this review has aided in your decision to purchase this item.

By Sheree Lane
The e-book gave me insights and ideas of how to keep the home clean and insect-free at all times. It helped me understand that there are safer methods to protecting one's home than using questionable chemical products. The book also opened my eyes to the risks of keeping other chemically-made products in the home around my family. The 25 natural remedies discussed to control the pests in the home and garden was enlightening and amazing!
