About the Author Sandi Allcut has loved flowers and has been in the floral industry for over 30 years. Her interest in floral design began when her best friend did not have the money for her wedding flowers. Being creative, she designed fresh flowers for the first time. This began a life time of curiosity of learning floral design with emphasis on wedding flowers. Having been formally trained in floral design, interior design, and owning her own successful floral shop, she is an expert in floral design and believes that we are given just one opportunity to deliver wedding flowers that exceed expectations.
